4. JUAN LUNA, ISANG SARSUELA helps students learn about Philippine history and culture in a fun and educational way. Schools, especially those with the Special Program in the Arts (SPA), can include watching this musical as part of performance tasks and end-of-year activities. This artistic production allows students from elementary to senior high school to connect their lessons to real-life experiences. It also gives all students the chance to enjoy high-quality stage performances, helping them develop a greater appreciation for the arts.

5. This musical can also be used in learning areas such as Araling Panlipunan, MAPEH, and other subjects, as part of performance tasks, to enhance students' understanding of history, culture, and the arts through an engaging and interactive experience.

6. Private schools are also encouraged to participate, with the supervisor or focal person for private schools taking the lead in coordinating the involvement of students in this educational experience.

7. Attached are the posters and synopsis of the musical play for reference. Kindly review them for further information

8. Schools Division Superintendents (SDSs), in close coordination with the Philippine Stagers Foundation, are instructed to create a committee for this activity to ensure the seamless conduct of the musical. For more information, please contact:
